IMPOSING SPECTACLE

OYSTER BAY THRONGED WITH SPECTATORS.

Oystar Bay, N. Y., Sept. 3 .- Under skies whistling gale which swept down Long Island sound and blew out to sea the sullen clouds and tempestuous rains which this morning threatened to immeasurably mar the spectacle. President Roosevelt today, within halling distance of his summer home, reviewed the most magnificent naval fleet ever assembled under the American flag. Forty-five of the most splendid types of the fighting vessels afloat lay at anchor in three long columns as the naval yacht Mayflower, which just a year ago was written into history as the meeting ground of the peace plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan, passed up and down the lines. The Mayflower's journey was made amid a continuous boom of saluting cannons, and gun after gun spoke the navy's honor to broke brilliantly blue before a gun after gun spoke the navy's honor to the commander in chief of all America's President Roosevelt had as his guests on board the Mayflower the secretary of the navy and several other government officials, members of the senate and house committee on naval affairs, and the naval attaches of eight of the powers of the world. There was something of an object lesson in this gathering of a representative array of the American navy, about one-third of the fighting forces being in the review.

When the parade of the Mayflower was over and the president had looked with critical eye at each of the flag-dressed vessels, his yacht came to anchor and he received on board the commanding of ficers of the fleet. Then followed a gala luncheon, at which the officers, the government officials, the attaches, senators and congressmen were guests, together with a number of the personal friends of the president.

Flanking the war vessels, which glistened in purest white, under the direct parts of the sun and against a low lying background of black clouds along the horizon, was the greatest fleet of private probably that has ever been gathered together in such a small compass. Each of these was decked with signal flags from stem to stern, and added materially in the painting of a marine spectacle unperpelled in the history of the American people. This was the stirring scene which greeted the president as the Mayflower steamed out from Oyster Bay shortly after 11 o'clock. It was just twenty minutes past that hour when the reviewing yacht carne within eange of the flagship which stood at the heal of the cafter olumn of the fleet. There came a flash of flame and a puff of gray smoke a flash of stame and a puff of gray smoke of the starboard saluting cannon of the flagship, which was the signal for the olar vessels to joir in an unanamous salute of twenty-one guiss.

Fellowed by the cruiser Dos Mo'nes, which was devoted to the service of the foreign naval attaches, and by the Dolphin, the Mayflower proceeded out of Oyster Bay to the head of the fieet of Lloyd's Neck, where the battleship Maine, with Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans on board, lay in the central position at the head of the fieet. The Dolphin and Des Moines took up their positions respectively at the head of the third and first columns, and the Mayflower passed down between the long lines of warships while the rear of the president's salute of twenty one guns again burst from the three-inch guns of each warship as the Mayflower swept majestically past. The receiver has paid 20 per cent to the Iowa State college, at Ames, Lowa, will receiver has paid 20 per cent to the savings depositors, and further payments will be made in a short time. It is yet problematical how much will ultimately be paid, but it is asserted by the receiver that the depositors will in time receive the greater part of their money.

The news of the arrest of Stensland was received in the section of the city in which the bank is located with great excitement. A long line of depositors was in front of the bank waiting for their money when the announcement was made, and it was greeted with cheers, groans and threats.

Being a holiday and all courts being closed, it was decided by the state's attorney to find a judge to sign the extradition papers. Judge Pond was fit ally located at De Kalb, Ill., and when informed of the importance of the case promised to start for Chicago immediately.

Whenever a sore or ulcer does not heal and shows signs of becoming chronic, it should arouse suspicion, because many of these places lead to Cancer. It may appear as an ordinary sore at first, and is given treatment as such, with some simple salve, wash or plaster, with the hope that the place will heal, but the real seat of the trouble is in the blood and cannot be reached by external remedies, and soon the sore will return. After
